

Boeing Selects Best Doctors to Help Employees get the Right Care

Leading aerospace manufacturer expands Well Being program to include expert medical consultation service

Boston – November 17, 2009 – Best Doctors, Inc., a provider of employer-based health benefits that help members get the right care, today announced that The Boeing Company, the world’s leading aerospace company, has selected Best Doctors’ benefit to include among its portfolio of Well Being resources. Through Best Doctors, Boeing employees and their dependents now have access to some of the nation’s most advanced medical expertise when they are uncertain about their diagnosis or treatment options.

Best Doctors helps companies and organizations provide employees and their treating physicians with information that will get them on the right clinical path without spending time, energy and money pursuing inappropriate treatment. Best Doctors serves as a trusted resource for some of the toughest medical situations, such as: unclear diagnoses; choosing a course of treatment; or, what questions patients should ask of their physicians.

The Best Doctors benefit allows Boeing employees to have their medical cases evaluated by nationally-recognized expert physicians who will conduct a thorough analysis based on medical records, history and tests. After the review, members receive a comprehensive, easy-to-understand report summarizing the expert’s findings that can be then used by their treating physicians.

“If you’re sick, you’re entitled to be sure you are getting the right care,” said Evan Falchuk, president of Best Doctors. “Best Doctors is here to help Boeing employees and their families be sure they have the right diagnosis and treatment, that they understand their condition and have the best chance to get well.”
